FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING

In the Crow's Nest Pass—Much Heavy Timber
Being Destroyed

BEARS SEEN NEAR ELKO

Mountains and Lakes again Filled with Suffocating Smoke

All last week forest fires were raging in the Crow's Nest Pass west of Blairmore, and although the heavy fall of rain and snow which descended on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning put a damper on the fires and at one time it was thought they were extinguished. They blazed up again in many places on Thursday morning and soon the mountains and lakes were again filled with suffocating smoke in spite of the fact that only about twenty-four hours previous snow to the depth of six or eight inches fell around Crow's Nest, McGillivray and Michel and heavy showers of rain fell at points farther west.

The little town of Kitchener, fifty miles west of Cranbrook was threatened by the flames and while large crowds were out in the forest fire-fighting, and doing their might to prevent the flames from reaching their town, many were busy gathering together their valuable belongings and preparing to flee from the fiery flames which threatened to sweep down upon them at any time and wipe their little burg off the map.

Four miles of Canadian Pacific Railway telegraph poles were burnt down immediately west of Kitchener and telegraph communications were cut off for some time. The C. P. R. had a number of men engaged to keep the telegraph lines in working order, and it was with great effort that the linemen succeeded in re-establishing telegraph communication with the outside world and after a week of very strenuous work the men returned to Crow's Nest on Sunday morning last.

Forest fires have wrought great havoc around McGillivray and many miles of heavily timbered land have been destroyed. Fires are still raging in this vicinity and it is feared that before they are extinguished they will cause incalculable losses.

Forest fires are also doing their destructive work around Elko and last week that town was in great danger of being destroyed. About one hundred and fifty lumberjacks and many others were out suppressing the flames. Bears and other wild animals rushed madly from the woods to seek shelter nearer town. A few grizzlies were seen "hanging around" town for a while until the sound of rifles and guns and the smell of powder told them that they were pursued.

The report that Crow's Nest and Andy Good's menagerie were destroyed by fire last week is not correct and Andy is still doing business at the same old stand.

So far as we can learn, no lives have been lost and but very little damage has been done to city or town property along the Pass by the recent forest fires although the damage done to the forest cannot be estimated.

Every year we have forest fires and every year miles and miles of heavy timber are destroyed through somebody's confounded stupidity.

Blairmore Has Meteorological Station

The only meteorological station in the Pass has just been erected in Blairmore by the West Canadian Collieries, Ltd., in connection with their engineering department. This station is also connected with the meteorological department of Canada, and a daily account of the state of the air and its temperature, weight, dryness, or moisture, winds, etc. is ascertained at the Blairmore meteorological station and is sent to the provincial government at Edmonton and from thence to the federal government at Ottawa.

This is another instance of Blairmore's progressiveness. When ever any of the small towns around Blairmore wish to secure a correct account of the weather, they may get same at Blairmore where a barometer, thermometer, hygrometer, anemometer and other meteorological instruments are doing their work successfully.

Re-opening Of Knox Church

The Knox Church, lately taken over by the Methodist denomination at Frank, and renovated at a great cost, has been completed and will be re-opened for divine worship on Sunday next. S. D. Chown, D. D., general superintendent of the Methodist Church, will officiate at the morning service, assisted by Rev. J. E. Rogers of Bellevue. In the afternoon at 2:30 the Rally Day fete in connection with the Sunday School will take place. The program for the day is arranged programme will be gone through. Speakers at the rally service will be Rev. T. M. Murray, of Coleman, and Dr. Chown, and the choir and orchestra will render suitable chorals. At 7:30 the venerable Dodge will again occupy the pulpit. Everyone should avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing one of Canada's most brilliant orators. An offering will be taken at both services, which will go towards the re-organization fund.

Will Stand Trial

Salvatore Luvera, who stabbed Frank Muruvanno on August 1st, will stand trial at the criminal session of the supreme court at Macleod on Tuesday next, September 6th, and F. Deceaux who is accused of causing the death of J. B. Lobert, a fellow miner at Frank, will come up for trial the following day. Lobert, it will be remembered, was injured while working at the mine on June 24th and died almost immediately.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Val. H. Wetmore desire to heartily thank the many friends who lent their assistance and showed their sympathy during the days of our sad bereavement. "Blest be the tide that binds. Our hearts in Christian love, The fellowship of kindred minds is like that to above."

BLAIRMORE HAS BEST BUILDINGS

Michel Rosse Has Splendid Residence—Building Continues Brisk

MANY BRICK BUILDINGS

Two New Stores for Here
—Coleman Man Invests in Blairmore

The masons' trowel and carpenter's hammer never have any rest in Blairmore and building goes on apace.

No matter where you look you will see new buildings—either in the course of erection or just finished. And they are not all frame buildings for many brick buildings have recently been added to Blairmore's business and residential sections.

Blairmore has dwelling houses which far eclipse any between Lethbridge and Fernie. One need only spend a few minutes in town to know that this is a substantial fact, and some of the fine buildings which now grace the residential as well as the business streets will, so we are reliably informed, be accompanied by still greater structures next year.

Michel Rosse, whose name is a household one to those who drink Lethbridge beer, has just about got his new dwelling finished and is ready for occupancy and intends moving into it next week. Mr. Rosse's dwelling house is a model one and we are safe in saying that so far it leads amongst Blairmore's beautiful residences—in fact, there is none equal to it in the Pass.

The size of this house is 26 X 38, two full storeys and a full size basement. It has four rooms upstairs, a parlor, dining room, kitchen and two small rooms downstairs. It is steam heated and has every modern convenience. A cement or marble walk will soon be laid between the front entrance and the side walk.

The small house near the south east corner of Mr. Rosse's will soon be removed from that street and a nice large lawn with probably a tennis court will surround this magnificent dwelling. Messrs. Frayer and Sinclair erected this building which is a credit to Blairmore's busy contractors.

Last week we made mention of Wolstenholme's new flour and feed store. Work on this building is progressing favourably, and Mr. Wolstenholme expects to be able to move into his new quarters next week.

Leo Yet, a former resident of Coleman, has decided to cast in his lot with Blairmore and is investing several thousand dollars here. Leo has purchased some land on Dearborn Street, near Mr. Gabo's blacksmith shop, and has signed a contract with Frayer & Sinclair to have erected a two full story building, 24 X 32. This building will be used as a laundry and general store.

And other business as well as residential buildings and to which we cannot devote any space this week, are still going up in "The commercial centre of the Pass."

What is believed to have been a bear attacked and partly devoured a fine pig near the Alberta Hotel last week. Several citizens kept watch for bruis during the nights since, and the animal had a "bear" escape.

Have You Remembered It?

When packing for the country cottage, don't forget your box of Zamb-Buk! Blisters, sunburn, scratches, insect stings, etc., if not immediately attended to, are likely to spoil your pleasure. Zamb-Buk ensures you against trouble from these. Take Zamb-Buk instead of "taking chances."

Zamb-Buk is antiseptic; kills all poison in wounds, whether from barbed wire fence, or insect sting. Soothes itching feet and blisters; heals baby's chafed places; cools those sunburn patches, and prevents freckles. No mother should be without it. Zamb-Buk is always superior to the ordinary ointments containing animal oils and fats, and mineral coloring matter. All druggists and stores sell Zamb-Buk, but avoid harmful substitutes.

"Did he say what?"

"Yes, my impudence."

Here are some definitions from the school-room: "A Jacobite is a man descended from Jacob." "Snoring is our breath meeting the air which is coming in our mouth." "Snoring is a kind of 'cooing' in the throat." Another boy writes: "When you are cold the inside of your body rumbles and then it makes a noise which is called sneezing." "A telephone is a kind of noise machine, as you call each one."

Westminster Gazette.

Jacobus Botha, ancestor of one of the Boer leaders in the war against England, was famous as an elephant hunter. He used to kill four or five elephants a day and in this way laid the foundation of quite a respectable South African fortune. A historian who wandered along the African coast at that time reported that Botha killed 20 elephants, two what he called "occasional" and that he shot as many as 13 elephants in a day. Some one who knew Botha declared that it was doubtful if he ever said such a thing and suggested that some one else told the story for him in order to see how great a tale that historian would believe.

Gordon Cumming was another famous African hunter who killed his fair share of big game, and F. C. Selous was another. The latter is said to have shot 23 elephants in three seasons with an old Dutch elephant gun.

The result of this slaughter has been to exterminate the elephant in South Africa. To-day there are no herds south of the Zambezi and the Cuanets rivers except two or three small protected herds in Kaoko, a small troop or two in Namaland and Bechuanaland and a few in Mashanaland and perhaps in Matsiela. This is all that remains of the herds that 60 or 70 years ago roamed in freedom over most of the South African interior.

The English have taken a special interest in the elephant since they have seen it disappear rapidly from their South African colonies and several societies have been formed to preserve it. These societies have apparently been gathered into one which has for its purpose the preservation of the fauna of all the British empire. The African native ever since he has been able to obtain and use firearms has killed the elephant regardless of size or sex. He has found that it is the most profitable trade that he can engage in because ivory finds a ready market at a good price. The elephant has been the victim of the colonies that no cow elephants or immature bulls shall be killed, and the European has been equally ready to be battered has been fixed according to the colony at from 3 to 30 pounds. The result of this is that in enforcing this rule is that the native has found that if he cannot sell the ivory he can legally be as well as always find some one who will take them off his hands as contraband.

The French society has taken all these points into consideration and has directed its crusade against the ivory trade in the interior of the continent, in the valley of the Congo. From here has been coming recently much of the contraband ivory which as much of the finest that has been found its way into the European markets. The killing of the big beast has been ruthless and without discrimination.

A RUTHLESS SLAUGHTER

ELEPHANTS PRACTICALLY EXTERMINATED IN AFRICA.

For Two Hundred and Fifty Years the Great Beast Has Been a Target for the Gun of the Ivory Hunter—French Society Makes Plans for His Preservation—Britain is Working in Same Cause.

For many years, in fact almost ever since the white man and his native allies have been killing off the elephant, there has been discussion of means of preserving the big beast from extinction. The discussion has concerned the African elephant chiefly, because the Indian elephant through his long history as a help of mankind has become a valuable asset of society and has practically saved himself from the fate of the African, which has merely been a matter of time, played in the pools, framed down the early settler's corn and been such a nuisance and an aid that he has been considered a good target for ivory hunters' guns.

Now a French society, known as the "Friends of the Elephant," through the efforts of a French society has awakened so much interest that not only has France given it support but other nations that have African possessions are seeing what can be done to prevent the loss of this interesting and valuable animal. The plan advocated by the society is that of establishing preserves or sanctuaries where the elephant might live in some sense of security with his family and not be disturbed by hunters seeking his tusks to sell for ivory.

There is no doubt that he has got very few left in the world. The white man went to South Africa. His case has a parallel in this country. The buffalo, which the buffalo was able to make out against the Indian, so the elephant was able to live and roam and caused her that surrounded him. He was not in great danger of extinction from the pit-falls and snares of the natives. It was when the white man with firearms appeared upon the scene that he began to lose ground. When the Dutch landed at Cape Town about 250 years ago his evil days began.

One of the old time hunters left an especially interesting record for daring and skill. It was a trick with him to call attention to the stories that are told of his prowess, to some fine big old bull in a herd, and he would go and then kill him. The wagers that this hunter made with himself, it is said, kept him in the habit of doing so. It happened to run across a lively old brute that objected to being chafed and he was killed. The hunter's tale. This hero of the herd turned on the great hunter, looked him, and trampled him until there was not an unbroken bone in his body.

Jacobus Botha, ancestor of one of the Boer leaders in the war against England, was famous as an elephant hunter. He used to kill four or five elephants a day and in this way laid the foundation of quite a respectable South African fortune. A HINDU LEGEND.

Now the First Man and the First Woman Live in the Garden of Eden.

Brahma made his mind to make the world and a man and woman. He made the world, and he made the man and the woman and put them on the island of Ceylon. According to the account it was the most beautiful of islands, with many flowers and such verdure as the branches of trees were so arranged that when the wind swept through them every tree was a thousand bougainvillea.

Brahma, when he put them there said, "Let them have a period of celibacy, for it is my desire and will that true love should forever precede marriage."

Then they had their courtship, with the nightingale singing and the stars shining and the flowers blooming, and they fell in love. Imagine that courtship—no prospective fathers or mothers-in-law, no prying and gossiping of neighbors, nobody to say, "You man, how do you expect to support her?" Nothing of that kind. Brahma, married by the supreme Brahman, he said, "You must never leave this island, nor, after a little while the man said, 'I'll look about a little.'"

We went to the northern extremity of the island, where there was a little narrow neck of land connecting it with the mainland, and—have you seen this?—was a narrow neck of land, and when he looked over to the mainland such hills and valleys, such dells and such mountains crowned with snow, such catenae clad in brown of gold, he saw that that he would have to go and told his wife: "The country over there is a thousand times better than this. Let us migrate. Let me take every other woman that ever lived, said, 'Let me go with you. We'll be happy to let us stay here.'"

But he said, "No, let us go." So she followed him and when they came to this narrow neck of land he took her on his back like a gentleman and carried her over. But the moment they got over they heard a crash and, looking back, discovered that the narrow neck of land had fallen into the sea. The mirage had disappeared, and there was naught but rocks and sand, and then the supreme Brahman cursed them both to the lowest hell.

Then it was that the man spoke, "Curse me, but curse not her. It was not her fault. It was mine." The supreme Brahman said, "I will save her, but not thee." And then she spoke out of her fullness of love, of a heart in which there was love enough to make all of her daughter rich in holy affection, and said: "If thou wilt not spare him, spare neither me. I do not wish to live without him. Love him, said, 'I will spare you both and watch over you and your children forever.'"

Ready to Talk.

A very brilliant Irish lady some years ago arranged that Mr. Lecky should meet an old and famous Irish man of very advanced opinions in politics. It was intended that they should have a long talk, and the Irish man had a good deal to say about Mr. Lecky's later work and was well able to put what he said in a most effective language. The door opened, and Mr. Lecky was announced. He was introduced to the Irishman, and before the latter had time to say anything the Irishman began a political harangue which he kept going with out cessation the whole time he was there. The Irishman at first tried to break in with a word, but he was swept away, as it were, in the unceasing flow of Lecky's language, so after a time he sat in amused bewilderment, waiting until nature gave out. But when Mr. Lecky's talk was getting exhausted he rose from his chair and shook hands with the hostess and her guests, keeping on talking all the time. They came out with him to the top of the staircase, but could not get over the obstacle even then, as he talked all the way down to the door and was even in an unfinished sentence when the door was shut behind him. They looked at each other and roared.

First English Book on Sport.

The first book on sport ever printed in the English language was a tiny treatise called the "Boke of St. Albans." It author being a woman, Dame Juliana Berners. Its second edition was printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1486. A descendant of her family, Lord Berners, was the translator of Froissart's "Chronicles." It is true that old manuscripts existed, such as the "Venetie de Twyce" of the time of Edward II., but it was Dame Juliana who was the real ancestress of sporting literature in England, for she also composed an essay on hawking and another on "Fishing With an Angle," the last being of such excellence that Mark Twain himself did take a hint from its pages.

A Titled Kleptomaniac.

A titled kleptomaniac almost a century ago was the Countess of Cork. She had a reputation for stealing anything she could lay her hands on, whether it was useful or valuable or not. Once, when leaving a country house where she had been staying, she saw and quickly picked up a hedgehog and carried it home, a pet of the porter's, and took it away in her carriage. Finding it an uncomfortable housewarming, she decided to dispose of it at the first town where she changed horses and then offered it to a confectioner in return for a sponge cake.

Before Marriage.

Fuddy—There would be fewer unhappy marriages if the world if men and women would try to find out each other's disposition during courtship instead of doing their best to deceive one another.

Duddy—Yes, I guess there would be, as you say, fewer unhappy marriages. In fact, there would be fewer marriages of any kind, I guess.

MISERABLE WITH DYSPEPSIA

Another Wonderful Cure By That Wonderful Fruit Medicine "Fruit-a-tive."

Mr. Mathias Dery, of 225 Church street, Ottawa, Ont., was treated for years by physicians for Piles, Dyspepsia. He spent so much money for doctor's medicines, without getting much relief that he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless.

Seeing "Fruit-a-tive" advertised, however, Mr. Dery thought he would invest $50 in a box of these wonderful Fruit Juice tablets.

And this famous fruit medicine did for Mr. Dery what all the doctors could not cure him. The month after he wrote:—"Fruit-a-tive" positively cured me of severe Dyspepsia when physicians failed to relieve me."

"Fruit-a-tive" makes the stomach sweet and clean, insures sound digestion and regulates bowels and skin.

See a box, 4 for $1.50, or trial box, 25c—at all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tive, Limited, Ottawa.

Telegraphing The Dead

Mr. W. T. Stead has hit up a new scheme by which he hopes to open up a kind of wireless communication with the spirit world. This new scheme he describes in The For-tightly Review. For some time the ghost of a Chicago woman, dead some seventeen years, has been communicating with the versatile English journalist, and she has told him many wonderful things, which being incapable of disproof, Mr. Stead tells us, with a sureness born of unshaken conviction, that the people who die are moving freely unperceived in our midst. But the average man cannot perceive them, and to remedy this defect there is to be a spiritual "wireless" brought into play. This it seems is the suggestion of the Chicago lady, who has, we suppose, been perfecting the plan during her seventeen years' sojourn in the spirit land. But in order to use this new method we must still have recourse to the inevitable "medium." Doubt less Mr. Stead believes in all of this.
Doubtless there are others who believe all, or part, of what he assures them. But the world at large is waiting patiently, but somewhat incredulously, we must confess, for the first definite and unimpeachable evidence that communication with the spirit world has been established.
The world has waited some thousands of years already; it is prepared to wait a few more thousands. It believes in a spirit world, but it hesitates to accept the supposed communications as being in any case real messages from that invisible world.

We have just received a copy of "Prosperous Towns of the Pass," published by the Blairmore Enterprise. This is devoted to an account of the chief industries and personalities in the towns of Blairmore, the first settlement in the Crow's Nest Pass, Frank, Coleman, Passburg, Bellevue, Hillcrest, and Lille. We notice that J. W. Gresham, general blacksmith and horse-shoer, is included among the prominent citizens of Frank. Mr. Gresham had many years experience as a farrier in the British Army and is a justice of the peace and councillor in his adopted town.

Blairmore is centrally situated among this group of rapidly growing towns, and 32 pages are given to a description of the natural beauties and advantage of this district.

The Methodist people propose to hold a concert on or about September 12th, which will be announced by posters later.

Emeralds and opals of very fine quality may be examined at Somerton Bros.

Mr. Desmond, the socialist, sang to the air here on Saturday night, last, which music was much enjoyed by the chickadees and lizards in the Turtle.

If you are interested in diamonds call on Somerton Bros. They have them from $25 to $500.

The O.P.R. are busy putting up the round holes to accommodate two engines, and have just completed the new side track.

Your correspondent was a bit indignant over having to step off into the middle of the street Saturday night, because of a socialist meeting blocking the sidewalk near the drug store. We learn the same trick was perpetrated at Blairmore, the night previous.

Somerton Bros. watch repairing cannot be beaten. A useful line of gun and revolver materials are kept in stock and fitted satisfactorily. Intricate work of any kind is appreciated.

Among the cases before the docket this week were—one drunk, from Hillcrest, fined $5 and costs; two assault cases, from Blairmore, $5 and costs each; one assault case from Passburg, fined $10 and costs. Justice Gresham presided.

Frank is rapidly assuming a new shape these days. The school house painted, the church painted, a large number of houses for the Coal Co. bearing completion, and now the Imperial Hotel and adjoining buildings are being painted. Needless to say, they look better for it.

The Knox Church has seen the finishing touches of renovation which make the building both attractive and tasty. Interiorly the changes were made under the supervision of the congregation, and the Methodist people of Frank can now boast of one of the finest churches in the Pass.

Rev. F. S. McCall delivered a fine sermon in the Methodist Church here on Sunday last, dealing with the subject of "Trades Unionism." The reverend gentleman handled the theme in an able manner and gave among others as a parallel illustration, "the children of Israel in bondage." The congregation was the largest for years.

Coleman Notes

Harry Wright left for Saskatchewan on Sunday morning.

A new shooting club is being formed here and high scores are being made.

The "Burgomaster" made a big hit at the opera house here on Monday night last and was greeted by a full house. Many were in from Blairmore and Frank.

Many will be down from Coleman to hear the Rev. Dr. S. D. Chow officiate at the re-opening of Knox Methodist Church at Frank on Sunday next.

Alex. Cameron, H. G. Goodlove, T. B. Brandon, Alexander McLean (of Ostville), and many others, went to Lethbridge on Wednesday to hear Sir Wilfrid Laurier. They returned home this morning.

F. G. Graham is offering a pair of the best patent leather shoes in town to the person making the highest individual score at his live-pin bowling alleys up to September 15th. D. S. Barrett leads at present with a score of 153, while Mr. McKibbin, head accountant at the L. C. & C. Co's office, is a close second with 146.

Bellevue Notes

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Emerson has returned from a visit to her cousin in Fernie, B. C.

Some notes received from an anonymous correspondent cannot be given publication for want of writer's name.

The bridge crossing the Old Man on the Hillcrest Road has just received an overhaul and much-needed repair, and is now fairly staunch in appearance.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. Sold by Dealers Everywhere.

A basket party was given by the athletic club on Wednesday last and proved a big success. The baskets were very pretty, indeed, and the first prize was won by Miss Annie Kidd, of the Bellevue Hotel, her specimen representing a football field and was very nice.

LILLE NOTES

Mrs. J. R. McDonald and family have arrived here to join Mr. McDonald, who is the new pit boss here.

Mrs. Pinkney has nearly recovered from the accident she sustained over a week ago.

Cornerer Pinkney held an inquest at Frank Police Barracks on Friday, 20th, on the body of Dan Blaszczak, of Hillcrest, who died in Frank hospital from injuries received by being run over by a car on the Hillcrest track, between the mine and Upple. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

The annual sports held on August 22nd, under the auspices of the Icelandic society, were a great success. Special trains were run during the day, which brought a large number of people from the surrounding district. The Female Band rendered excellent music during the day, as well as supplying the music for the ball in the evening.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by Dealers Everywhere.

To Hair Dressers

A SPLENDID HAIR TONIC THAT MAKES BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every hair dresser should know about Parisian Sage, the quick-acting hair dressing, that does just what this paper tells you it will do. Parisian Sage is a most delightful and different hair dressing, a fact that will be recognized the moment it is applied to the scalp. There is not a particle of stickiness in it; it is not greasy; it has a delicate and a refined odor, and is a truly invigorating tonic that will make hair grow, if the hair root still shows the least sign of life.

Try a bottle of Parisian Sage. It will brighten up the hair in two days. Parisian Sage is guaranteed by S. J. Watson, at Blairmore, to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and scalp itch in two weeks, or money back. It is particularly in demand by women of refinement, who desire soft, luxuriant hair, that commands admiration. Price 50 cents a large bottle by S. J. Watson, at Blairmore, or direct, all charges prepaid, from the Canadian makers, the Groulx Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

Each grate bar has three sides—long wear

When only one side of a grate bar is continually next to the fire all the wear is concentrated on that one side. The life of the grate bar is thus naturally just one-third as long as when the wear is distributed on three sides.

That explains why Sunshine grates have three lives. Each of the four grate bars has three sides. Each time the ashes are "rocked down" (no shaking with Sunshine) the side next to the fire can be changed. Thus the life of the grate is greatly prolonged.

When desired, the heavy hull dog teeth on the grates will seize hold of clinkers, grind them up, and drop the particles into the ash pan.
